THE PATTISON WILL.

A SENSATIONAL CASE DISPOSED OF BY JUDGE MCKINLEY.

How the Deed was Changed—Shortage in Rentals—One of the Strange Cases That Has Been Tried for Some Time Past—More Developments Promised.

A decision was rendered yesterday by Judge McKinley in Department No. 5 of the Superior Court, which is sensational in the greatest degree. The case is entitled McDaniel et al. vs. Pattison, and the effect of the decision is to wrest a large amount of property from the hands of J. H. W. Pattison of this city and show his real character to be that of a bold and unscrupulous thief. The case was a civil action, brought by the heirs of A. M. Pattison, father of J. H. W. Pattison, to quiet the title to the property left by the deceased, and which has been in the possession of the son ever since his death, and to set aside the deed under which the son claimed all the property, alleging that the instrument is a fraudulent one. The case was tried several weeks ago, and lasted several days, a number of witnesses being examined, the greater portion of them being experts as to handwriting. It was then submitted to the court, and the decision was handed down yesterday. The opinion is quite a lengthy one, and the principal points contained in it are as follows:

The plaintiff, Fred A. Sennett, is a minor 18 years of age, and William J. Gillilan was appointed guardian ad litem for the purpose of prosecuting this action.

April 5, 1885, A. M. Pattison died in Los Angeles, and left as his law the plaintiffs, Sarah E. McDaniel, his daughter and the defendant, J. H. W. Pattison, his son; the defendant, M. J. Pattison, J. H. W. Pattison's wife, and the plaintiffs, Cora H. Gillilan, Julia Logan, Fred A. Sennett, his grandchildren, children of a deceased daughter.

At the time of his death, A. M. Pattison owned the north half of lot 8, block 9, fronting 60 feet on the east side of Spring street, and extending back 165 feet; lots 9 and 11, block 9, of the Aliso tract, block 69 of Ord's survey, lots 20 and 21, block 1, of the Orchard tract, all of it being valued at $30,000; also personal property amounting to $9,000.

The court finds that it is not true that lot 8, block 9, and the east 30 feet of lot 9, block 9, of the Aliso tract, were owned by the defendant; that the property was not purchased by him in 1882 or 1883, or at any time with his money, nor was it purchased for him. The deeds were made to A. M. Pattison, but not to hold in trust for the defendant; nor did A. M. Pattison, at the time of taking the deed, agree to convey the property to the defendant at any time on request of the defendant. And A. M. Pattison did not, March 4, 1885, convey the property to the defendant, and the defendant is not the owner, or seized in fee or entitled to the possession of the property, nor any of the property described in the complaint, except the lots therein named.

Prior to March 4, 1885, in September, 1884, A. M. Pattison made a will by which he devised all his property to his wife, Mary Pattison, during her life, and the remainder over after her death to the defendant, J. H. W. Pattison, and the plaintiffs, Sarah E. McDaniel, Julia Logan, Cora H. Gillilan and Fred A. Sennett, the defendant and Sarah E. McDaniel to take one-third of the estate, and the other three to take the remaining one-third, the share which would have been inherited by their mother if living. The will remained unrevoked at the time of the death of A. M. Pattison.

At the same time, March 4, 1885, A. M. Pattison was the owner of real estate in Missouri valued at $30,000. March 4, 1885, A. M. Pattison agreed to convey to the defendant lots 20 and 21, block 1, of the Orchard tract, for $10,000, and an instrument was drawn up to that effect. But the deed was fraudulently altered by the defendant, without the knowledge of A. M. Pattison, his father, so as to make it appear that it was a conveyance to the defendant of all the property in Los Angeles county, and of the property in Missouri, at Carthage, Jasper county, being all the real property owned by A. M. Pattison at the time of his death. The alteration was made by the insertion of the deed, after the description of the lots in the Orchard tract, of all the other property before described.

At the time the deed was made by A. M. Pattison, he was in feeble health, was 70 years of age, and was residing in Los Angeles, where the defendant resided.

March 6th, the day after the deed was made, the defendant executed a deed to his wife, Mary Pattison, for all the property, including the property fraudulently inserted in the first deed. At that time the wife of A. M. Pattison was 73 years of age, infirm and feeble in body and mind, and was living with the defendant. By reason of her age and infirmities her son possessed great influence over her, and made the conveyance to his wife the better to conceal the fraud he had perpetrated, knowing that by reason of his mother's infirmities he could easily obtain the property from her, and by such means cheat and defraud the plaintiffs out of it. The conveyance was made to Mary Pattison, the wife of the defendant, without any consideration.

Shortly after the death of A. M. Pattison the defendant made a deed to the widow for $4500, as evidence of his indebtedness to her for "moneys left by A. M. Pattison, and which he used for his own purposes." The defendant obtained possession of all the money belonging to A. M. Pattison at the time of his death, $30,000, which he has not applied for the purpose of the estate, except a small portion for funeral expenses, and the balance of the expenses of the widow, not exceeding one thousand dollars.

In pursuance of his fraudulent design and by means of the influence he possessed over the widow, his mother, the defendant obtained possession of all the money belonging to A. M. Pattison at the time of his death, $30,000, which he has not applied for the purpose of the estate, except a small portion for funeral expenses, and the balance of the expenses of the widow, not exceeding one thousand dollars.

The claim of the defendant that the plaintiffs have no interest in the property is false and fraudulent. The defendant has been in receipt of the rents of the property since the death of A. M. Pattison, amounting to $750 per month, and has not accounted for the same, and there remains now in his hands belonging to the estate at least six thousand dollars in rents.

The will came into the hands of the defendant after the death of A. M. Pattison, and was by him fraudulently destroyed or suppressed, and was never filed in the Superior Court or any other court, but has been in the control of the defendant, unless fraudulently destroyed by him. It was executed in Carthage, Mo., in September, 1884.

Prior to the commencement of this action, in another suit between the parties, the defendant in a deposition stated he had lost the deed of March 4, 1885, and after the commencement of this action he again deposed that he had lost it, but upon the commencement of this trial he produced the deed, although it was badly mutilated and upon the appearance of the document and the evidence taken in the case, the court finds as a fact that the deed was suppressed by the defendant for the purpose of concealing the fraudulent alterations which had been made therein by the insertion of the description of all the property. The defendant has never paid the $10,000 for the lots bought in his father's name.

The court, as conclusions of law, finds that the plaintiffs are entitled to a judgment and decree: that the defendant acquired no right, title or interest in any of the property, except to lots 20 and 21, block 1, of the Orchard tract; that the deed of March 5, 1885, is void and is canceled; that the deed from his mother is fraudulent and is canceled, and that the property be distributed according to the provisions of the will which were stated above.

Since the submission of the case to Judge McKinley the defendant has haunted the courtroom, and awaited the decision with the utmost anxiety. Scarcely a day has passed that he has not dropped in at one time or another, and there may be additional developments in the case in a few days.

THE RAILROADS.

Cut Rates and How the Public Acted.

Passenger agents were on hand bright and early yesterday morning, fully expecting to sell out-rate tickets to the East by the wholesale. In this they were badly fooled. It is true that hundreds of people visited the various offices and talked and talked, but they did not buy tickets to any great extent. They wanted to know all about the rate war, and asked question after question, but they seemed willing to wait for a greater reduction before they would buy their tickets. The railroad men told them that there is considerable doubt about a hard fight. The railroad people as a rule do not care for a fight of that kind, and it is hard to get them to admit that there is even a chance for a general rate war.

On the quiet, however, they admit that things look quite serious, and it would not surprise them to see rates go lower than they did four years ago. The fight has started just as it did at that time, and unless some of the eastern roads cut their foot out, there is no telling where the thing will end.

The scalpers were out in full force yesterday, trying to dispose of their tickets. A rate war is hard on this class of agents, and if it keeps up some of them will have to change their occupation.

A dispatch from Chicago yesterday says:

The Rock Island today announced another reduction in passenger rates to Council Bluffs and Kansas City, bringing them down to 85 cents for first and second class, and 55 cents for third class. This makes the new rate the same both ways.

The agents here are quietly awaiting developments from the East, and it is expected that the circuit will open in good shape in about a week. President Manvel of the Santa Fe system came in from Pasadena yesterday morning and was closeted with General Manager Wade until noon, when he and Mr. Wade took a special for San Diego. Mr. Manvel is very quiet about his mission to the coast at this time, but says he will probably talk on his return from the city of bay climate Thursday or Friday. He laughed at the idea of making any changes in the general offices of the coast lines. Mr. Wade has given entire satisfaction and Mr. Manvel believes the business has improved since Mr. Wade took charge.

The Trombone discharged General Freight and Passenger Agent Hynes yesterday morning, but the story was without foundation. Mr. Hynes came here under the new management, and, as he is well up in his line, the chances are that he will hold the office as long as Mr. Wade remains on the coast.

Yesterday Frank Darwin was appointed train-dispatcher for the Santa Fe road.

FIRST-CLASS SLEEPERS FOR SECOND-CLASS PASSENGERS.

The passenger rate war is waxing hotter and hotter, and the less the traveler pays the better the accommodations given him. Mr. A. B. Dessery, agent of the Washburn Railroad, at 34 North Spring street, last night announced that his company would on March 10th and 24th and April 7th and 21st, run excursions from here to Chicago and all eastern points for second-class passengers, and carry them from Kansas City to Boston in up-to-date sleeping-cars at the second-class rates. Of course everybody knows that a first-class sleeping-car is a first-class car, but this is a way of whipping the devil around the stump by the Washburn road in the matter of rate cutting. Mr. Dessery was seen at his residence last night by TIMES reporter, and in answer to an inquiry, said: "The Washburn Railroad intends to have its share of this business. We have the short line from Kansas City to St. Louis or Chicago and Niagara Falls to Boston, and while we will carry passengers at the bottom rates, we propose to give them the best accommodations ever offered to second-class passengers. I don't know that rates will go any lower, but I do know that we intend to keep these excursions up to the standard we have started on. If you will come to my office at 34 North Spring street tomorrow I will show you pictures of our cars which will satisfy you that we mean what we say."

The Fair.

The superintendent of the fair is very anxious that all intending exhibitors should bear in mind the necessity of having their fruit at the Pavilion early Monday morning, the 10th inst., prepared to place in position. The management adopted the rule that all exhibits must be in position and in readiness for the judges at 12 o'clock noon Tuesday, and no premiums will be paid on any article or exhibit unless properly entered on the secretary's books before that time, and in the place assigned them for exhibition. The secretary will rigidly enforce this rule. It will only be justice to all and result in the whole exposition being in fine order at the advertised time of opening.

The Pavilion will be at the disposal of Capt. Gray, the superintendent, Saturday morning of this week, and he will be there at 8 o'clock in readiness to receive all fruits and set the herculean work of getting the exhibits transformed the bare hall into a scene of beauty.

The enthusiasm increases daily. Letters and telegrams are pouring in, and nothing now prevents the State Citrus Fair from becoming a grand exposition.

THE WHALING TRIAL.

THE FIRST DAY OF THE CELEBRATED CASE.

The Teachers of the Spring-street School Tell of Michael's Actions at That Building—All Agree That He Was Intoxicated at the Time—The Case for the People Closed.

Justice Lockwood's courtroom was crowded yesterday morning some time before the hour for the trial of the case of the People against Michael Whaling, the only Democratic member of the Board of Education, on the charge of disturbing the peace of the Spring-street school on the afternoon of February 14th, when it is alleged that he visited the building while under the influence of liquor, used violent and insulting language to several of the lady teachers, and conducted himself in a generally disgraceful manner. The teachers in the building first brought the matter to the attention of the Board of Education in a communication to that body, and afterward Mrs. C. P. Bradford, the drawing teacher of the department, upon whom Michael had made a particularly savage assault, swore to a complaint against him.

The defendant was early on hand, accompanied by his counsel, Messrs. Scoville, C. Stevens and Appel, and busy himself making copious notes and offering suggestions. The People were represented by Deputy District Attorneys Diehl and Phibbs and Assistant City Attorneys Dunn and Crutcher. School Director Cooper was on hand as the representative of the Board of Education, and thirteen lady teachers occupied seats within the hall, besides which there were a number of small school children, ranging in age from 7 to 10 years, who had been subpoenaed as witnesses for the defense. There was quite a number of well-known citizens present, and considerable interest was manifested in the proceedings.

After the children had been sent back to school and order restored in the courtroom, the work of impaneling the jury was commenced. A venire of 35 had been subpoenaed, which was exhausted before the noon recess, only six jurors having been secured at that hour, when another venire was issued. There were a number of amusing incidents during the examination of the jurors, and frequent interchanges of compliments between counsel, there being a tendency to make a burlesque of the whole affair, and more than once Justice Lockwood had to exercise his authority.

At 1:30 o'clock court again convened, and the impaneling of the jury commenced. Almost about the same conditions as during the morning session, and at 3 o'clock the necessary 12 men were secured, took their places in the box and were sworn. Their names are as follows: C. S. Parsons, G. W. Smith, E. F. Morehouse, W. J. Luttrell, T. P. Bowser, William F. Grosser, W. Chamberlain, L. Liechtenberger, J. Mesmer, W. Lewis, C. Pike and Ed Kinney.

But little time was wasted in preliminaries, the taking of testimony commencing almost at once. Mrs. Bengough, one of the Spring-street teachers, being the first witness. The lady gave her evidence in a straightforward manner, and despite the numerous interruptions to which she was subjected, got her whole statement before the jury. She stated that on the afternoon of February 14th, while the drawing teacher, Mrs. Bradford, was sitting with her at her desk, Whaling came in, and after some of his characteristic remarks she started to leave the room, when he called to her, as he wished her to hear what he had to say "to this woman," referring to Mrs. Bradford. Whaling then began questioning Mrs. Bradford, saying that she did not earn her money, that she got too much for the work she did, and that he proposed to have her investigated. He was very offensive in his manner, and created such a disturbance that she could not go on with her duties. He did not leave the room, following Mrs. Bradford out. Mrs. Bengough was of the opinion that Whaling was under the influence of liquor.

The cross-examination by Mr. Payton was very tedious and long drawn out, but the witness was not shaken, and on more than one occasion proved more than a match for the attorney in repartee, at one time flatteringly remarking that he made her very tired by endless repetitions.

Miss Wright was the next witness, and testified that Whaling came to her room on the day in question, and insisted on making a speech to the scholars. The lady gave the main points of his address, and that his company was not desired. She, too, was of the opinion that Whaling was under the influence of liquor, judging from his actions and appearance.

This witness was also cross-examined at great length, but without materially changing her evidence, and at its conclusion, the court took a recess until 7 o'clock.

At 7 o'clock the courtroom was again crowded, many prominent citizens being on hand, besides a number of ladies. Miss Joy, another Spring-street teacher, was put on the stand, and testified to Whaling coming into her room on the day in question, repeatedly asking her name, and insisting on speaking to the pupils. She gave him permission, and he spoke at some length, but he finally became so ridiculous that she could not keep the children from laughing. Whaling got quite close to her, and his breath smelt very strong of liquor. She was of the opinion that he was intoxicated, and thought she could tell a drunken man when she saw him. He was very unsteady, and, as she before stated, his breath smelt very strong of liquor.

Mr. Stephens cross-examined the witness at considerable length as to the difference between a whisky and tobacco breath, in which he got the worst of the argument. The lady said that she had no positive proof that Whaling was drunk, beyond that of scent and sight. He used no profane or obscene language, and it was principally his manner that was objectionable.

There was considerable laughter during the examination of this witness, and Justice Lockwood had to threaten to impose a fine for contempt if better order was not kept.

Mrs. Bradford, the complaining witness, was then put upon the stand, and told substantially the same story as Mrs. Bengough in regard to what took place in that lady's room. When she left the room to go to her office Whaling followed her, using loud and boisterous language. When she got to her door she looked it back, as she did not care to be left alone with a drunken man. She stood his abuse as long as she could, and then ordered him from the room, when he left. In going through the hall he belittled and screamed as loud as he could, disturbing the whole building. He ran forward and backward, pawing the air, and she did not know whether he intended to fall on her or strike her. She thought she could tell the difference between a drunken and sober man. Whaling's breath smelt strongly of liquor, and he acted so queerly that she thought he must be drunk. In her own room she tried to do full justice to the occasion, and told Whaling that the best day's work he ever did was in getting on the School Board, as it got him into respectable company, where he never was before. Whaling used no vulgar or obscene language, but just yelled, belittled and pawed the air.

Mrs. Bradford was cross-examined at length by Mr. Stephens, but the witness was able to take care of herself, and gave counsel as good as he sent in every instance.

Mr. Stephens then offered a newspaper slip from THE TIMES, he said, being a copy of the communication sent to the Board of Education by the Spring-street teachers. Mrs. Bradford said that it was correct, and, after the usual lengthy argument, it was admitted as evidence, and filed as defendant's exhibit No. 1, after being read to the jury.

Mr. Dunn then stated that this closed the case for the people, when Mr. Stephens said that he would move for the dismissal of the case this morning, after he had presented some authorities to the court, and after some talk, Justice Lockwood announced an adjournment until 10 o'clock this morning.

There were several attempts on the part of counsel for the defense to show that the present prosecution was part of a conspiracy to get Whaling out of the School Board, but Justice Lockwood sustained the objections of the assistant district attorney, as there was no evidence to show that such was the case.

Money, Stocks and Bonds.

By Telegraph to The Times.

New York, March 4.—Money on call easy at 5 1/2 per cent. Prime mercantile paper, 5 1/2. Sterling exchange, dull but strong; 60-day bill, 4 1/2. American cotton oil, steady.

New York, March 4.—Stocks were very dull today, especially for the regular list, though trusts showed a little more animation at advanced prices. Western Union and Missouri Pacific showed considerable weakness, while Wabash was strong. There was considerable buying on Rock Island, but St. Paul was pressed for sale steadily all day in spite of the resistance tendered by the report of earnings for February. The market closed dull, with only insignificant changes from last night's prices.

ORANGE THIEVES.

The Bold Way in Which They Do Things Up in Alhambra.

Orange thieves made a raid on Alhambra orchards Monday night. A. C. Weeks was awakened by some noise, and on going out discovered a man loading up a wagon with the golden fruit. Mr. Weeks gave chase, but the man escaped, leaving horse, wagon and stolen fruit behind him. They are now in the hands of the Constable.

Nearly at the same hour Charles Phillips returned home and saw something suspicious behind his hedge. On investigation it proved to be several sacks of oranges ready for immediate removal. A few steps further he ran across a countless individual, whom, upon inquiry as to what he was doing there at that time of night, said he was looking for his coat. Mr. Phillips said he had seen a coat near the arroyo bridge, and offered to help him find it, intending to take him toward the Constable's residence, but when the thief had arrived at the spot where his team was awaiting him he drew his pistol and gave Mr. Phillips the cold shoulder, and drove off at a lively rate.

DISEASES OF THE HEAD.

Throat and Lungs, successfully treated by H. L. L. WILLIAMS, M.D., M.C.P.S.O., by his Compound Oxygen and other medicated inhalations.

Probably no system of practice ever employed has been so universally successful as that introduced by Dr. Williams for the cure of Croup, Throat, Hoarseness, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

CATARH.

Catarh is often regarded by the patient as a cold in the head, and he often expresses his astonishment at his remarkable tendency to contract fresh colds. Indeed, he declares that he is scarcely free from one cold before he takes another, and he is always exceedingly careful. It is also a matter of surprise to him that the cold always seems to settle in the head and throat.

At times many of the symptoms of catarh seem to abate, and the patient is led to hope that the disease is about to wear off; but another class of symptoms soon appear and he learns to his horror that, instead of recovery from the disease, it is some other disease in its character and has extended to the throat. A sense of weariness is sometimes felt in reading, speaking or singing; heaviness at times occurs, a sensation of dryness is felt in the throat, or it may be that some foreign substance, as, for instance, a hair, obstructs the throat; there become a sense of labor and fatigue; the breath issues on a little of exertion, a short, hacking cough, a peculiar sound in clearing the throat, a feeling as though there was not room enough in the chest to breathe; these and other symptoms occur after the disease has made considerable progress. Then it is a time when consumption is about to begin its deadly work. Up to this time the disease has been slow and the patient may, in extreme cases, declare that he has had the catarh for years and has not seemed to become much worse, and trusts that he will "by and by" recover. But the delusion is the great error that has misled our countrymen with consumptive forms, as all forms of catarh end finally in consumption.

Every case of catarh is curable when properly treated. Eastern visitors and invalids should avail themselves of the opportunity of being cured before they return home.

Those who desire to consult me in regard to their cases had better call at my office for an examination, but if impossible to visit the office personally can write for list of questions and circular, both of which will be sent free of charge. Address
